France: TF1, Court of Cassation of France, First Civil Law Chamber, 13-22401, 13 November 2014

Brad Spitz (REALEX) · Thursday, January 29th, 2015

In this judgment, the French Supreme Court ruled that an author who is a member of a collecting society may not take action in infringement cases to protect his economic rights, except in the case of a deficiency on the part of said collecting society.

In the same judgment, the Supreme Court ruled that publishing agreements for the assignment of rights of an author must be in writing, and it is not possible to demonstrate the existence of an agreement by reference to the behaviour of the authors as regards the exploitation of the work.
